City Gives Up 'Straight-Through' Traffic Light Plan

MARSHALL ASSUMES POST

BOALS ORDERS SIGNALS BACK TO OLD SYSTEM

Police Find Longer Waits Fail To Reduce Mishaps or Speed Up Travel.

Mansfield's traffic lights were being changed back to the "staggered" system today, and 10 seconds will be sliced off the waiting cycle, Traffic Commissioner Frend C. Boals said.

The downtown lights have been on a "straight-through" system for six months.

Boals and Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow listed three reasons for returning the lights to the staggered system and shortening the waiting cycle.

Boals said the cycle is being shortened because pedestrians are failing to wait out the current 30-second cycle. He also said that under the "straight-through" system no more traffic moved than under the staggered system and there was no appreciable difference in the number of accidents.

Enlow said that Police Chief Meade K. Bates recommended that the "straight-through" system be abolished because:

1. It proved to be dangerous when streets are icy because drivers attempt to make several green lights in one burst of speed.

2. The city's tangled parking situation, even in dry weather, prevents cars from making more than two green lights in a single driving period.

* * *

Tried 6 Months.

In August, as an experiment, the lights were set on a "straight-through" cycle. All lights were on red or green in one direction at the same time.

Lights now are to be alternately red and green from block to block. This is the same cycle in use before the experiment.

While lights now are on red for 30 seconds and green for 30 seconds, under the new system the time will be reduced to 20 seconds for each, Boals said.

Enlow said City Electrician Ernest Adams has been instructed to return the lights to the staggered system on the basis of recommendations submitted by Bates and Boals.

Boals said that under both systems about 350 cars are moved in one direction on a particular city street. He said that the maximum that can be moved on streets with traffic signals is about 375 an hour.

* * *

Pedestrians Impatient.

The commissioner said that "more and more pedestrians have been going against the lights because the waiting period was too long.

"We want to encourage them to wait ON the sidewalk and cross WITH the lights," he said. He added that traffic patrolmen have been instructed to enforce the regulations.

SCHOOLS HIKE JANITORS' PAY

An annual salary increase of $390 to each of 35 janitors and custodial employes of the Mansfield city schools was granted by the board of education last night.

The workers had asked for a pay boost of $480 some weeks ago. Negotiations with R. J. Jamieson, assistant international representative of the International Union of Operating Engineers, who represented the men, resulted in the compromise agreement accepted by the board last night.

Effective as of Jan. 1, the resolution also calls for another boost of $90 per year as of July 1 if the state legislature provides the school system more money through the foundation program.

Full-Year Employes.

Harold W. Arlin, president of the board, pointed out in discussion of the wage agreement that the custodians are all 12-month employes in contrast to most school workers who are employed for only nine months of the year, and that they are all heads of families.

The board more than a month ago granted pay increases averaging $500 a year to teachers.

Appointments Approved.

Besides granting the wage increase to the custodians, the board approved adjusted salaries, based on previously adopted schedules, for principals, supervisors, teachers, clerks and janitors. It also approved three new appointments and one resignation.

Hired as permanent substitute teacher at Hedges school was Mrs. Helen Channell. Her salary is to be $1,028.50 from January 20 to July 1. Appointed as physiotherapist at Sunshine school to replace Mrs. Elysabeth Ingraham, who resigned because of ill health, was Miss Emma Yarman. She is to be paid $5 a day for eight days each month.

Million-Dollar School Measure Voted By Board

A 1947 city schools appropriation bill totaling $1,133,040.37, nearly one-quarter of a million dollars higher than last year, was passed by the Mansfield board of education last night. Last year $895,912 was set up for school operations.

The appropriation measure shows that 84.6 per cent of the total operating funds, or $863,549, will be used for salaries of employes, a reflection of the pay boosts recently granted to teachers and other workers.

Amounts appropriated for nearly all other purposes were similarly increased over last year's figures. Salaries last year amounted to $659,250, or 82.9 percent of all funds, and two years ago they totaled $624,332, or 81.8 per cent.

Supplies in 1947 were estimated to cost $66,000 as compared with only $57,150 in 1946 and $53,000 in 1945. Equipment replacements, materials for maintenance and service allowances totaled $73,900 as compared with $62,650 a year ago and $64,775 in 1945.

A bond retirement fund of $113,146, some $11,500 higher than last year's, was set up.

* * *

$725,899 For Teachers.

The figure for salaries was the largest in the bill and the biggest sum, $725,899, was earmarked for the teachers, principals, and supervisors. Last year a total of $546,700 was set aside for the same purpose.

Salaries for janitors and maintenance workers amounted to $104,000, or $21,000 more than in 1946 and $30,000 more than in 1945.

Fixed charges and contributions, such as rent, insurance and taxes, totaled $6,370 as compared with $5,828 a year ago. A fund totaling $5,500 was earmarked for capital outlays, an increase of $1,000 over 1946.

Outstanding in the funds set up for supplies was the $15,000, for new textbooks. Schools Supt. W. L. Miller told the board he estimated that amount of money, as compared with only $8,000 in each of the last two years, would be needed to bring up to date many of the texts being used in various classes.

Costs of replacements in educational equipment were set at $5,000, or $3,500 more than last year. Similarly, a scum 10 times as great as estimated at this time last year was allowed for repairs to educational equipment. A total of $2,000, compared with only $200 in 1946, was allowed for that purpose. Board members pointed out that the schools had been deferring replacements and repairs for several years because of war-time shortages.

The bill was drawn on a tax valuation of $67,997,141.

EMPIRE GETS WAGE REQUEST

Union Awaits Outcome of Other Contract Requests Before Negotiating.

Members of Local 169, United Steel Workers (CIO), the bargaining agent for production employes of the Empire Steel corporation, today were awaiting the outcome of contract negotiations between other USW unions and the major steel companies before starting negotiations with Empire for a new contract.

Result of these negotiations will determine the fate of a new contract ratified by Local 169 members and submitted to Empire management, Frank Wetzel, local president, said today.

Local 169 claims approximately 960 members among the corporation's 1,000-odd production workers.

"Submission of the contract is merely a preliminary step. Actual negotiations on it will not begin until a pattern is set by the outcome of negotiations in 'big steel'," Wetzel said.

* * *

Expires March 1.

Approved unanimously by a majority of Local 169 members, the contract includes provisions for higher wages and other concessions, Wetzel reported. He said no specific amount was asked in the wage increase clause. The old contract expires March 1.

While portal-to-portal pay is one of the major issues in big steel negotiations this year, it is not involved at Empire, Wetzel said.

Contracts between the USW unions and most of the major steel companies expire Feb. 15.

Meanwhile, negotiations between Local 711, United Electrical Workers (CIO), and the Westinghouse Electric corporation likewise awaited action on proposed contracts by the union's international headquarters.

Joseph Hawkins, president of Local 711, said that his organization, representing approximately 3,800 of the firm's 4,200 production workers in Mansfield, would take no action until the proposed local contract is coordinated with those of 25 other Westinghouse locals.

"Time is needed for ratification of the other contracts on the local level and then 30 more days are needed for reopening contracts with the company. I don't know if the company has even been notified as yet," he said.

Approximately 26 per cent of the union membership ratified the local contract Sunday. Hawkins said there was only one dissenting vote among the approximately 1,000 members who attended the ratification meeting.

The union president said that no action has been taken on a strike vote.

"We don't take such action until the contract expires or until negotiations, which haven't even begun yet, are broken off," he said.

The proposed contract with Westinghouse calls for an unspecified wage increase and other concessions. The Associated Press has reported, however, that the wage increase request will range from 27½ to 29 cents per hour.

Railroad Lays Off 7,000 Employes

NEW YORK —(INS)— The New York Central railroad today ordered dismissal of 7,000 maintenance-of-way employes as an economy measure.

The road announced that despite the heaviest peace-time traffic in history economies were needed to prevent further losses this year.

B-R-R! ZERO IS FORECAST FOR TONIGHT

Strong Winds, Vicious Snow Squalls Herald Approach of Severe Cold Wave.

Mansfield's most severe cold wave of the winter struck swiftly this morning, sending temperatures plummeting to eight degrees above zero by noon.

Accompanied by strong gusts of wind and sudden, vicious snow squalls which at times lowered visibility to the vanishing point, the cold wave was expected to plunge the mercury to below zero tonight.

Shippers, livestock owners and farmers were warned to prepare for the most severe weather of the winter. Motorists were told to buy anti-freeze or keep radiators covered.

Within a few hours this morning, the temperature slipped from 20 degrees to eight. The mercury was continuing to drop at noon.

Less Cold By Thursday.

The cold wave, roaring out of the northwest, would hang on through tomorrow, at least, the weather bureau said. Thursday will be "not quite so cold."

Sub-zero temperatures were recorded throughout Minnesota, Wisconsin, the Dakotas and parts of Iowa and Nebraska today. In Chicago it was two above zero this morning.

The International News Service reported that winds hit a velocity of 50 miles per hour in gusts in the Cleveland area, and during snow squalls traffic there was at a standstill.

The high yesterday at Hayesville was 44, with the low this morning of 20. Precipitation for the 24-hour period ended at 8 a. m.—consisting of snow, sleet and rain—was .31 inches.

FELLER'S PAY TOPS $80,000

CLEVELAND —(INS)— The signature, "Robert W. Feller," was appended today to the biggest baseball contract ever signed in history.

Meeting with President Bill Veeck of the Cleveland Indians, Feller put his name to a 1947 agreement that guarantees him in excess of the $80,000 yearly salary of Babe Ruth in 1930-31.

"It's the most money ever paid a baseball player," Veeck said.

"It's the best contract I ever signed," Feller said.

The amount of money involved was not disclosed but Veeck said it would be considerably in excess of the reported $75,000 the speedballer earned with the Indians last season.

The one-year contract was signed by Feller in a blaze of photographers flash guns while eager sports writers stood by.

Feller drove to Cleveland from his Waukegan, Ill., home last night with his wife and baby son, Steve. He said he intended to drive on to Florida for a vacation before reporting for spring training at the Indians' Arizona camp.

TALMADGE CALLS FOR 'WHITE' AID

ATLANTA, Ga. —(U.P.)— Gov. Herman Talmadge in his first address to the Georgia legislature declared today he would call on "the white people" of the state to come to Atlanta and stage a huge demonstration in his behalf.

As he spoke, some 2,000 college students were preparing to march on the capitol this afternoon to protest Talmadge's assumption of the governor's office.

In a fighting address to a joint session of the assembly at noon the 33-year old chief executive branded as false reports he had used violence and force to wrest the governorship from Ellis Arnall.

Few Mansfielders See Marshall; GI's Unaware He's Aboard Train

By GEORGE SATTLER

Under a dark sky that pelted them first with rain—then sleet and snow—a handful of courageous Mansfielders kept a freezing vigil outside the Pennsylvania station last night to catch a glimpse of Gen. George C. Marshall, their new secretary of state.

The former chief of staff and ambassador to China rolled into Mansfield on the Manhattan Limited at 6:30 p. m., nearly an hour behind schedule because of a blinding snow storm. Two minutes later his train pulled out with none having been admitted to his presence.

Even before the train pulled into Mansfield, word spread through the shivering crowd as if by magic that the famed general had a private car to the rear.

* * *

AS THE TRAIN ground to a stop, shouting groups raced up the tracks.

"There he is!" shouted the first Mansfielders to reach Marshall's private car.

Others puffed up the tracks, close behind. Gen. Marshall could be seen through the windows. He was flanked on one side by an army officer, his chest covered with ribbons, and a civilian.

* * *

MARSHALL WAS LAUGHING and talking, first with the army man, then with the civilian. He was dressed in a dark suit and wore a bright tie.

"He looks just like his pictures!" one person cried. Others nodded in agreement.

"Only difference is he doesn't look so stern," said another.

"And not quite so lean," a third commented.

Marshall, in fact, looked like a well-fed, ruddy cheeked business man. From his well lighted car, he obviously couldn't see the crowd outside.

* * *

FROM ALL APPEARANCES he was in a jovial, optimistic mood.

News-Journal reporters and camermen were denied admittance to the car. Secret service men refused all comers. They had the nation's second-in-command to protect.

News-Journal Cameraman Bill Graham climbed up on the observation platform of the car to try for a picture of Gen. Marshall through the windows. But his "shot" was spoiled when the train gave a lurch as it started forward.

Meanwhile, John Coe, another cameraman, combed the train, looking for members of the Marshall party.

* * *

HE FOUND THEM—in a way. Hundreds of GI's filled the train.

"Has anyone seen General Marshall?" Coe asked.

He was answered with hoots and jeers.

"Naw, but I just seen Hitler scooting down thata way," a soldier called. Others joined in the laughter.

Apparently few on the train knew the general was aboard.

Herbert Asks Tax Revision

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Ohio legislators today tackled the tough job cut out for them by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert of providing more money for expanding state operations while practicing "rigid economy."

"It is time to give the taxpayer a 'break'," Herbert said in delivering his first message to a joint senate-house session last night.

An orderly, well-dressed crowd packed galleries of the lower chamber for the 30-minute address.

Outlining his legislative program to the predominantly Republican general assembly, the governor reiterated his demands for "reduction or revision of our tax structure" but withheld specific recommendations pending completion of a tax department study in two weeks.

He recalled his campaign statement that revenues appeared adequate to permit a $50,000,000 tax reduction program—barring new state needs—and his proposal to lop one-third off sales taxes which grossed $108,000,000 in 1946.

Opposes Surplus.

Pointing to an unappropriated postwar reserve fund of $90,000,000, Herbert termed "unwise and dangerous to free representative government the principle of maintaining taxes for the sole purpose of creating a huge surplus."

He said new needs—separate from capital improvements—had not been determined fully for public schools and state universities, the welfare department and other state agencies and local governments.

"I consider it my duty to study that report (of the state tax department) before making any specific recommendations on these interrelated subjects," Herbert said.

COUNTY MARKS UP SECOND '47 TRAFFIC DEATH

Richland county's second traffic accident fatality of 1947 was marked up last night when Ernest T. Hamilton, 22, of Galion, died at General hospital of injuries received early Saturday.

Both deaths occurred within a 14-hour period yesterday. Jay Hill, 71-year-old Shelby resident, died about 7:30 a. m., a few minutes after he was knocked down by one car and run over by another on Shelby's Main street. The county's second traffic death last year occurred on Jan. 14.

Hamilton was found pinned under his overturned automobile on U. S. Route 30-S two miles west of Mansfield early Saturday. He suffered fractures of the skull and left leg and multiple lacerations.

He apparently had lost control of his car and crashed into a utility pole, state patrolmen said. He was found by a passing motorist about 6:30 a. m., a few minuttes after the accident.

The young man, a World War II veteran, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley Hamilton, of 144 North Washington street, Galion.

He was a member of the Galion Moose and Veterans of Foreign Wars. He served overseas for three years with the First Marine division.

Surviving, in addition to the parents, are two brothers, Robert, of Shumaker, Ark.; and Leonard, of Galion; and three sisters, Mrs. Betty Hinchley, Carol Jean and Sandra, all of Galion.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete. Friends may call at the Snyder funeral home in Galion after 7 p. m. today.

SENATE CHECKS TAX COST OF PORTAL CLAIMS

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Top army spokesmen were called to Capitol Hill today to tell how pending portal pay suits might increase the taxpayer's bill for World War II.

Undersecretary of War Kenneth C. Royall and Brig. Gen. Maurice Hirsch, chairman of the army price adjustment board, were asked to discuss the subject before a senate judiciary subcommittee.

Some senators contended that payment of portal-to-portal claims filed by unions would result in adding large sums to government costs for work done by cost-plus contractors.

The senate subcommittee is considering bills to throw the lawsuits claiming nearly $5,000,000,000 out of court.

It was Picard whose decision in ciary committee to review the conduct of federal district Judge Frank Picard of Detroit, who has been a key figure in the portal-to-portal litigation.

It was Piard whose decision in the Mt. Clemens Pottery company case led to the deluge of portal-to-portal suits by CIO unions. His name was brought into subcommittee testimony yesterday by Theodore R. Iserman, counsel for the Chrysler corporation, in connection with a portal-to-portal suit involving Chrysler.

Iserman said Picard had remarked in open court that he was "pro-labor" but later ordered the remark stricken from the record. He complained that Picard also had dismissed a jury which ignored his instructions to return a verdict favorable to the suing union.

Sen. James O. Eastland, D., Miss., immediately interjected that the case should be referred to the house "with a view to impeachment." In impeachment cases, the house brings the charges and the senate decides whether the accused is guilty.

Eastland said the subcommittee would ask the full judiciary committee to send excerpts of the testimony to the house. However, subcommittee chairman Forrest C. Donnell, R., Mo., said no action has been taken.

Food Prices Drop a Tiny One Percent

WASHINGTON— (U.P.) —Food prices dropped one percent between Nov. 15 and Dec. 15—their first decline in more than a year, the bureau of labor statistics reported today.

Nevertheless, the overall cost of living rose one per cent during the same period because other items increased in price.

Preliminary figures showed the biggest drop in food prices was a 15 per cent decline recorded for lard, shortening and margarine. Meats were down 2½ per cent, fresh fruits and vegetables, one per cent, and eggs, less than one per cent. Other food prices went up about two per cent.

Non-food and non-rent items rose three and a half per cent during the 30-day period. Among these were house furnishings and wearing apparel, especially men's wool suits, shoes and work clothes.

The cost of living index on Dec. 15 was 53 per cent higher than the 1935-39 base; 18 per cent higher than a year ago, and 15 per cent higher than last June, before OPA controls were lifted.

REJECTS APPEAL

TOLEDO —(INS)— Kenneth Salter of Toledo had lost another round today in his fight to escape the electric chair for the June 1 slaying of 11-year-old Barbara Dunn. An appeal was denied by the district appellate court from a decision finding him guilty of chloroforming and criminally assaulting the child. Salter is sentenced to die Jan. 29.

Anti-Negro Voting Bill Wins Approval

ATLANTA, Ga. —(U.P.)— A bill to exclude Negroes from voting in Georgia Democratic primaries was introduced in the house yesterday and given committee approval 90 minutes later.

The measure carried the approval of both Herman Talmadge and M. E. Thompson, the state's two governors.

The measure would eliminate reference to primaries throughout the Georgia code and the state party would control primaries, allowing only white persons to vote in them.

GENERAL WILL SHUN POLITICS, HE ANNOUNCES

Chief Justice Vinson Swears In New Secretary of State at President's Office.

WASHINGTON — (INS) — Gen. George C. Marshall was sworn in at the White House today as secretary of state after declaring that he never can be drafted for the presidency or other political office.

Marshall said he was becoming secretary of state with the understanding that the post is not political.

President Truman declared, as the high office was entrusted to the wartime chief of staff, that America's foreign relations course "is in safe hands."

Chief Justive Fred M. Vinson administered the oath shortly after 11 a .m. in the president's office.

Marshall issued a formal statement divorcing himself from all connection with politics as he arrived in Washington this morning by train from Chicago.

He emphasized that he "could never be drafted for any political office."

* * *

Ceremony Solemn.

Impressive solemnity marked the ceremonies at the White House.

The tall, graying master warrior, who now climaxes his long career in the service of the nation as a maker of the peace, listened with his right hand held high as the chief justice read the oath of office.

Mr. Truman and the retiring secretary of state, James F. Byrnes, stepped forward quickly and shook Marshall's hands warmly when the taking of the oath had been completed.

The president told Marshall that it gave him a great deal of pleasure to present the new secretary with his certificate of office.

The president expressed regret that illness had forced Byrnes' resignation. He added:

"I feel the duties of the secretary of state are in safe hands."

* * *

Top Leaders Present.

The president asked Marshall to say a few words.

Marshall then said quietly:

"Thank you, Mr. President. I appreciate sincerely this honor and your confidence."

Top national leaders were assembled in the president's office for the ceremony.

Besides the president and Byrnes they included other members of the cabinet, congressional leaders of both parties, among them senate President Vandenberg (R.) Mich., and Sen. Connally (D.) Tex., who aided Byrnes throughout the "Big Four" peace conferences.

White House Secretary Charles G. Ross told newsmen that Mr. Truman had not been aware that Marshall was going to make a statement on his determination to avoid any connection with politics.

Ross said the president had not discussed political matters with Marshall.

The new cabinet member, first presidential soldier to guide the nation's foreign relations, declared on his arrival in Washington:

"I want to be specific and emphatic against any mention of my name in political matters."

His statement apparently was inspired by rumors that in being placed in the state department post Marshall was being groomed for the possibility of a candidate for presidency or vice-presidency in the next election.

GALION — Partitions of a house were knocked out eight inches and a minor fire resulted from an explosion at 9:45 a. m. today at an apartment at 309 South street, Galion.

JOB OPENINGS DOUBLE JAN. 1 TOTAL AS MANSFIELD EMPLOYMENT SPURTS

Employment again is on the upswing in Mansfield.

Job openings at the Ohio State Employment Service office were reported today as double the Jan. 1 figure.

The majority of the 700 Westinghouse workers furloughed before the year-end holidays were back on their jobs.

The furlough of Westinghouse workers coincided with a drop in Mansfield job openings that sent listings at the OSES to a low point of 50 on Jan. 1, C. W. Handley, employment office manager, reported.

Handley, at the year-end, termed the decrease a seasonal drop influenced by inventories and a shortage of processed steel materials. He forecast an increase in jobs for the first four months of 1947.

Recalling of furloughed workers and the increase in job openings also reduced the drain on Bureau of Unemployment Compensation funds that reached total benefit payments of $325,836.15 in Richland county in 1946.

Average payment to 4,521 workers was $16.63 in 1946.

During December 205 new claims for compensation payments were filed at the North Diamond street office, Handley said, while 63 other claims were disallowed. December payments totaled $3,192.19, a decrease of 1.9 per cent from November.

The Employment Service office made a total of 4,806 placements during 1946. This was a decrease of 48.7 per cent from 1945.

During December the Mansfield office, with 288 placements, ranked fifth among 46 offices in the state, excluding the eight largest offices.

Although down 21.5 per cent from November, the decrease in placements here compared with a statewide drop of 24.3 per cent, Handley reported.

Of December placements in Mansfield, 180 were in manufacturing, 27 in construction, 38 in the wholesale and retail merchandising trade, 17 in services and 14 as domestics.

The office recorded 157 new applications for work during December.

WALTER WINCHELL

Dialect Ban Wins Aid

"DEAR WALTER: The School for Gagwriting conducted by the National Laugh Week Foundation (at P. S. 17, Manhattan) passed a resolution at its meeting in favor of the campaign to erase dialect quips, which hold up all races to ridicule and scorn. In these times it is doubly important to be careful where one sows those hate seeds. Dialect jokes are part of American humor, but when they hold up to ridicule and scorn they just ain't funny. Some people will do anything for a laugh. Yours till the fight is won — George Lewis, Director, Nat'l Laugh Week Foundation."

"Walter: You'll get plenty of help against the vomics (who go in for 'comicky-finns') from Groucho Marx and Harry Ruby. They have been fighting a long time. Don't fail to credit Earl Wilson, too, he did several columns on it months ago. Incidentally, one of the worst offenders is one of your long-ago contributors, now on the air. As a toastmaster, many is the time I've heard him begin a story with: 'Now, this little kike, etc.' (And he's a Lahntzman, yea!) I also heard him tell a very anti-Catholic story (at a midtown spot) in front of a mixed group. No sense at all. But he is very dated and would starve from unemployment if he had to stop!— E. S."

"New York: Oddly enough, it isn't a case of do-or-dialect with most offenders. Two of the stars (W. H. and L. H.) are messy with money and should retire, the fools! . . . P. D. is versatile enough to get clean laughs. Now hamateurish M. Chas made plenty as a dress stymana (everybody wants to get inter the act!) And his alleged comedy about the Jewish gal who thought her scissors was stolen (which resulted in a long strike and hardship for workers) was the 'gag' (I hear) which may blow your top. Especially the ending when she tells the union board she made a mistake and they decide: 'We'll pull the strike anyway!' That should do a lot to make people think Jews are responsible for so many strikes. Thanks to M. C.!

"Minerva Pious (Mrs. Nussbaum) is wonderful. A straight comedy without having to resort to being a dialoxtra. Larry Finley won't allow any dialect comedy on discs. The same goes for Negro, Jewish, Irish, Swedish or any transcriptions—h Cahn."

* * *

"DEEPLY HURT and honestly surprised to read complaints about me. In six years I have not received one complaint. I take unbelievable precautions to see any dialect character being repulsive, conniving, etc. . . . I charge such to morons, hillbilly or some harmless character. Have been honored by U. J. A. and similar groups. I plead not guilty and certainly last man to malign Irish. I feel, however, hypersensitivity and thin-skinned objections dangerously spotlight differences between people and that kind of segregation is sure you agree is what we're trying to teach world to forget! D."

WESTBROOK PEGLER

Fay Trial Irks Clark

NEW YORK—The acquittal of Joe Fay, the vicious union racketeer and politician of the Frank Hague adherence, actually was no surprise to those who followed with a knowing intelligence the awkward prosecution in Judge Thomas F. Meaney's federal court in Newark, N. J. Still it was a shock because it was hard to believe that anything so raw could happen in a federal court.

The shock struck Tom Clark, the attorney general, in Washington, who could have prevented it all, however, by relieving Edgar H. Rossbach, the United States attorney, and sending in a man from outside.

"I think it was a—damned outrage," Mr. Clark said and announced that now, with the damage done, he was sending a man from Washington to investigate Rossbach's office.

Fay was tried for cheating the government out of $118,879 which he owed as income tax on bribes and tribute received from contractors on great construction jobs financed largely by the federal treasury.

Before the farce began, attention was called to the fact that Fay, the defendant, Judge Meaney and Rossbach all were members of the Hague local of the Democratic party. This gang has been described in harsher terms by many other members of the same party. These three were members not only of the same local lodge but members of a small ruling circle whose political and social interests are intertwined.

Meaney and Rossbach had their chance to disqualify themselves and ask Clark to send in men with no local connections. In doing so they would not have impaired the prestige of the court or the U. S. attorney's office. They elected not to do so

* * *

MR. CLARK'S attention had been directed to the case after it was assigned to Judge Meaney. He expressed confidence in Judge Meaney both during and after the trial and other qualified persons exonerated Meaney of any appearance of dirty work on the bench. One legal observer who had reasons to view his conduct with a skeptical eye found no fault. Mr. Clark openly declared his displeasure concerning the presentation by Rossbach, however. His inquiry, if it is made in good faith, must call upon the agents of the treasury who prepared the case and lined it to the department of justice for prosecution, to tell how much time Rossbach spent with them going over the government's evidence.

Rossbach might be asked whether he availed himself of the material prepared for the cross-examination of Fay in his trial in New York on charges of extortion. Fay was convicted here by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan and sentenced to serve from 8½ to 16 years in prison. He did not dare take the witness stand against Hogan, who had prepared a list of questions about two inches thick dealing with "criminal, vicious and immoral acts" of his past career. He did take the stand in Newark.

The most glaring incident of the trial was the discovery that Rossbach had permitted a juror to be accepted who had been a member of one of Fay's own local unions until four months ago and whose three nephews still were members. This juror is now a contractor in a small way and owns an excavating machine which he can operate only by Fay's favor.

Knowing the political background, for he once prosecuted some other union racketeers in Newark, Mr. Clark let the trial go on to a result that was a foregone conclusion to those who had sniffed the atmosphere and found something rotten in the courtroom.

WALTER LIPPMAN

Dulles States Policy

THE ADDRESS made last Friday to the National Publishers' association by Mr. John Foster Dulles marks a turning point of great significance in the development of United States foreign policy. His close association with Gov. Dewey and with Senator Vandenberg, as well as the time of the address, makes it certain that he was speaking for the leading elements of the Republican party.

As a result of the elections in November the Republicans are no longer merely the opposition, and their role in foreign policy is greatly changed. Once "bipartisan cooperation" meant that they would not obstruct and oppose. Since San Francisco it has meant that they would collaborate and support. Now, as Mr. Dulles' address shows, they have a program to propose and they will attempt to lead.

The crux of the proposal is that we should work not for another German settlement as such but for a new European settlement. The first question, of course, is whether Mr. Dulles is in conflict with the policy of the administration.

The truth here is, I think, that his German and European program is entirely consistent with the best hopes and intentions of the state department and of Gen. Clay's conduct of military government. But for various reasons, which we need not dwell upon again, these hopes and intentions have never yet been set forth coherently and systematically as the American policy for Europe.

MR. DULLES has now done that. He has made explicit what has been implicit. He has stated positively and constructively what has thus far been obscured and confused by an excessive preoccupation with details, with temporary difficulties of the occupation, with small expedients, and with the quest for tactical advantages in the general diplomatic conflict with the Soviet Union.

There ought, however, to be no serious obstacle to a fundamental agreement. For the writer Dulles asks the administration to take is the way every important person in it, who has thought much about Germany, really wishes to go.

The next question is how much support such an American policy can have among the larger and the smaller nations who must make the settlement. Probably we must assume that the Soviet government will begin by not liking it. But it does not follow that in the end the Soviet government may not be induced to accept it.

The inducements are very great, and they may even be compelling. For this is not what the Russians themselves and many others may at first think, a plan to organize a "western bloc" against the Soviet Union. The plan calls for radically decentralized consideration of German states connected by political and economic ties with the surrounding countries of Europe. That would be a western bloc only if the Russians themselves made it one. It would become a western bloc only if they permit the German states in their zone from joining the confederation and if they compel Poland and Czechoslovakia to stay out of a European system.

The practical virtue of this approach is that a great part of Europe can be reconstructed even if the Soviet Union does not at first agree. The fact that so much of Europe can be organized without Soviet participation should act as a most compelling inducement to the Soviets to participate in this organization of the whole of Europe.

CITY OFFERED FAIRGROUNDS AS PARK AREA

Board Committee Gives Park Group Chance to Buy Site.

A committee representing the Richland county fair board yesterday offered to sell the fairgrounds to the city as a park area, but the City Parks commission wasn't very enthusiastic about the proposal.

Arthur A. Mellick, chairman of the fair board committee, said the offer was made because the majority of rural people still seemed to favor selling the grounds and locating the fair on a new site outside the city.

"In view of the fact that Mansfield helps to support the grounds through taxes we thought the city should have the first opportunity to buy the grounds if it wants them," Mellick said.

Bond Issue Needed.

Gordon L Watson, chairman of the parks commission, told the committee that the city couldn't buy the grounds without a bond issue and he doubted that such a plan would be approved by the public. Mansfield already has 145 acres of public parks, he said.

The group discussed a proposal for joint operation of the fairgrounds as a park during that part of the year when the grounds were not being used for a fair.

It was pointed out that little money could be spent by the parks commission on the grounds this year. Commission spokesmen, however, said it would cost little to lay out a hardball diamond in the racetrack.

Frank Burton, city park superintendent, attended the meeting.

Members of the fair board committee, in addition to Mellick, are C. H. Will of Shelby and Charles Oberlin, Greenwich, R. D 2.

Army's Mansfield Advisers Study Universal Training

Universal military training was the subject of discussion at the meeting of the Mansfield Army Advisory committee yesterday in room 1, Post Office building.

Plans were made for a more complete survey of public opinion with regard to the training proposal before an official report is made as requested by the Ohio State advisory committee in a recent letter to Dr. Edwin Fensch, committee chairman.

The army is also to be asked to supply the committee with more material for study upon this subject.

Universal military training has been advocated by President Harry Truman and is to be brought before the 80th Congress for a decision. The plan would require six months of basic training for every able bodied youth and then supplemental training of several choices and enrollment for a period in the inactive reserves. The armed forces have stated that under the plan about 900,000 men should be available for training each year.

Advisory committee members who will conduct the survey are John G. Routzon, John H. Finefrock jr., Rev. C. A. Portz, Clarence D. Fike, W. B. Huber, Ken Woodman, J. M. O'Hara, Mrs. Bess Augsburger and Col. Stuart M. Weaver.

The committee acts as liaison between the war department and the community on public relations matters. Similar committees have been formed in 30 other Ohio cities and a state committee has been appointed.

MAYOR STILL HUNTS ENLOW'S SUCCESSOR

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn still was hunting the man to succeed William W. Enlow as Mansfield service-safety director.

Enlow, who has been director for about a year, submitted his resignation to Mayor Roy W. Vaughn on Jan. 11. It becomes effective Jan. 31.

Vaughn met yesterday with Ralph Hardy, county executive chairman of the Republican party, and Atty. James V. Will, central committee chairman. He said that neither has recommended anyone for the directorship.

The mayor said he has received one application for the position but asked that the applicant's name be withheld.

Enlow, in his letter of resignation, said the job had grown to proportions he "no longer cares to assume."

FOE OF LIQUOR, VOLSTEAD, DIES

GRANITE FALLS, Minn.—(AP)—Andrew J. Volstead, the man who, more than any other, personified prohibition in the United States, died Monday at his Granite Falls home after having been in virtual retirement since the federal statute bearing his name was repealed in 1933.

The western Minnesota country lawyer served in congress for 20 years and was chairman of the house judiciary committee when an enforcement act to implement the 18th amendment became necessary in 1918.

How much of that act Volstead himself wrote remained his secret when he died Monday at the age of 87. But in the popular mind that law became known as the Volstead act when it was passed by congress over President Wilson's veto.

After his defeat in 1922, Volstead continued his campaign against liquor by becoming legal adviser to the St. Paul, Minn., district prohibition enforcement headquarters, a post he held until repeal.

Volstead was adamant in refusing interviews and pictures and once hung up the telephone on a London newspaper with the comment, "it was just another wet newspaper."

Although it was prohibition that won him fame, Volstead was also credited with drawing up and seeing enacted into law the farmers' cooperative act and the numerous bills to end the broad powers of President Wilson, granted in the emergency of World War I.

Before going to congress he served as Granite Falls mayor and city attorney, and later county attorney, before being elected to congress in 1903. He resumed private practice here following repeal but was forced by failing health to retire several years ago. A daughter, Mrs. Carl Lomen who lives here, is his sole survivor.

The Brinkerhoff school was in second place with an attendance of 93.84 percent and the Prospect school was third with 93.76 percent. Average attendance for all the schools was 92.39 percent.

Six of the schools had no truancy during the month. They were: Brinkerhoff, Newman, Prospect, Woodland, Western Avenue and West Fifth.

Of an enrollment of 6,484, there were 2,760 pupils who were neither absent nor tardy in December.

COUNTY SCHOOLS TO TEACH PUPILS HOME NURSING

Mrs. Clementine Feigenbaum, Lexington avenue road, will initiate for the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross next Monday a course of home nursing classes in Richland county high schools.

Working in cooperation with the Junior Red Cross and its chairman, Mrs. Ephraim Brown, the committee in charge of the new nursing course, has arranged classes in five county high schools. These five include Lucas, Ontario, Union Rural, Shelby and St. Peter's. Classes in other schools are planned later.

Mrs. Feigenbaum officially began her work with the Red Cross yesterday. She will spend this week making calls at the five schools becoming acquainted with the teachers and the Junior Red Cross sponsor-pupils of each school.

ALL OF ISSUE TO BE OFFERED IMMEDIATELY

Bids on Building Contracts Expected To Be Sought About March 1.

The Mansfield board of education last night decided to sell immediately all of the $2,011,000 worth of bonds approved by the voters to finance a building and improvement program.

Citing reports from banking and finance circles that interest rates on long-term bonds are due to rise in coming months, board members authorized their clerk to advertise for bids on the bonds.

The action came after three Mansfield architects told the board that their plans and specifications for new buildings to replace Western, Roseland and West Fifth schools should be ready by March 1.

Harry Brumenshenkel, H. S. Jones and O. H. Matthews, the latter of the Vernon Redding Associates, were the architects who said their plans should be ready so that bids from contractors could be sought by March 1.

* * *

Calls for Meeting.

The board asked the architects to meet together before Feb. 3 in order to standardize among the three buildings such equipment as lighting systems and air purifiers. Each architect said that his plans are approximately 50 per cent completed.

The board of education has already sold $100,000 worth of the $2,111,000 in bonds approved by the voters in the fall of 1945. An interest rate of one per cent applies to those bonds.

A date for the submission of bids in this sale is to be set after necessary legal advertising is drawn.

The big building program calls for a new elementary school in Roseland, new West Fifth, Bowman, Newman, Prospect, and combination Brinkerhoff - Carpenter buildings, additions to the Woodland, Hedges, and Western avenue buildings, improvements to the Senior high school gymnasium, swimming pool, and auditorium, and an addition to the Mansfield Public library and modernization of the present library building.

Tyger Basketeers Meet Strong Ross Teams at Fremont

Mansfield Senior high varsity and sophomore basketball squads have their work cut out for them tonight at Fremont Ross.

The sophomores meet their usual tough competition while Coach Vern Hoffman's varsity squad tangles with a "sleeper" in Ohio high school circles. Fremont looked so-so until Dick Baron, 1945-46 scoring ace returned to action, three games ago.

Baron, who was out with a broken hand, has averaged 15 points a game since returning to action. He counted 25 points as Ross dropped a 68 to 48 decision to Mansfield in 1946. Fremont has won seven of 11 games this season.

Fremont has four returning lettermen in Baron, Sam Sims, Walter Weinhardt and Lloyd Bishoff. Sims goes over the six-foot mark as does Dick Porcnik, soph center. Bob Keck, another six-footer, will probably start tonight in place of Bishoff.

Hoffman will go along with the lineup of Ralph Majors and Tom Cool, forwards, Chuck Dyer, center, Ollie Cline and Nick Cagich, guards. The Tygers have won three straight and have annexed six victories in 12 games this season.

The Tygers play strong Warren Harding on the Bengal hardwood Friday night.

Buddy Young's Missing From Illinois Scene

CHICAGO—(AP)—There was some explanation offered today for Buddy Young's absence from the University of Illinois campus — partially clearing up the mystery surrounding his disappearance at a time when rumors were current that he would sign a contract to play pro football.

One intimate friend, and finally his stepfather, dispelled some of the apparent secrecy over Young's absence from the campus for the past few days. But the diminutive track and gridiron star was unreachable for comment.

Bobby Anderson, a south side playground director who "coached" Young as a youngster at the Community Sports center, disclosed that the little Negro star athlete cut his examination at school yesterday to serve as a pallbearer at the funeral of Miss Deloris Evans, a close acquaintance since childhood.

Miss Evans died suddenly of a chest ailment Thursday, the day Young left the Illinois campus amid rumors that he was scholastically distressed and would quit school to sign a $20,000 a year contract to play football for the New York Yankees of the All America conference.

Buddy's stepfather, Robert Waterford, of Chicago, said it was his impression that Young would return to school after the funeral.

Failure to take yesterday's examination at Illinois automatically flunked Young in the course which must be made up before he could be eligible for track—he is one of the nation's best collegiate dash men—and for 1947 football.

Young has four other exams scheduled for today, tomorrow and Friday.

Purdue Kayoes Iowa Chances

CHICAGO—(AP)—The Iowa basketball team, with the second highest scoring average in Big Nine play, was virtually without a chance at the championship today, eliminated by a Purdue team which refused to bow down and eventually fought to a 52 to 46 triumph.

It was Iowa's second conference defeat in three nights, as they lost to Indiana, 50 to 48, Saturday. In addition it was the third Hawkeye loss in conference play compared to two victories, and left them with little chance to even gain a tie for the crown. The league-leading Wisconsin club has won three and lost none.

Wisconsin won a non-conference contest last night, easily whipping Michigan State, 58 to 48, while Ohio State fell before Pittsburgh, 51 to 41, in another non-league match.

Ohio State lost its eighth of eleven contests as Pittsburgh caught the Buckeyes off their home court and roared to a 51 to 41 victory. It was revenge for the Panthers who dropped a 39 to 33 decision to Ohio State at Columbus in the opening contest for the Bucks.

Browns Sign 3 Gridders

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Jack Carpenter, 235-pound tackle from the University of Michigan, was signed to a contract today with the champion Cleveland Browns of the All-America football conference.

At the same time, General Manager-Coach Paul Brown announced the signing of two right halfbacks to bolster one of the few spots where the team showed a weakness last season. They are Jim Dewar of Indiana university and John Duda of the University of Virginia.

The acquisition of Carpenter spiked the report that he had signed a contract with the Chicago Cardinals of the National league. According to Brown Carpenter plans to come to Cleveland next week.

MADISON RAMS SEEK 8TH WIN

Mansfield Madison goes after its eighth consecutive cage victory at Loudonville tomorrow night.

Madison topped the Loudonville Red Birds 41 to 18 on the Rams' court early this season. Herb Eldridge led 18 points while Eldon Prichard netted 12 in that game.

Coach Jimmy Hunter will rely on Dick Weber, high scoring forward, to halt the Birds' scoring against Coach Jeff DeHaven's quintet. Weber remained on the bench for most of the last Rams-Red Birds encounter due to a badly cut finger, but was still able to sink six points in the few minutes he did play.

Coach Al Kopecial's reserve squad is going for its second straight victory in the preliminary game at 7:15. The Rams dropped Union 20 to 17 last Saturday night. They lost their first game to the Loudonville reserve team.

Carpenter 5 Ties for Lead

In the other game yesterday, Hedges was a defensive battle from Brinkhoff, 9 to 2. Todd notched Brinkhoff's two points in the fourth period.

Shafer, center forward, took scoring honors with 26 points.

Rollin Ford Takes Over County Scoring Lead

Lexington's Rollin Ford has jumped into the driver's seat in the Richland county league individual scoring race according to figures released today.

The Minuteman forward tallied 25 points against Shiloh last week to vault from third to first place. He has boosted his total to 115 points in eight games, an average of 14.4. Ford has poured home 46 field goals and 14 free throws.

Bob Hampton, Plymouth ace, was held to six points last week and dropped from first to third. He has 98 points while Don Stake, Lucas, connected for 15 markers to hold his second place ranking with 106 points.

Butler's scoring twins, Estley Maglott and Doug Weber hold down fourth and fifth positions with 91 and 86 points respectively.

Two sets of games are on tap for Richland county quintets this week with Butler favored to run its unbeaten string to 11 straight. The Bulldogs play at Shiloh tonight and go to Union Friday night. Coach Ed Wysocki's crew won over Shiloh, 56 to 23, and Union, 51 to 23, in the first round.

Second-place Bellville plays at Lucas, Lexington goes to Plymouth and Union travels to Ontario in the other trio of games on tonight's card. Bellville won over Lucas, 30 to 28; Ontario defeated Union, 33 to 19, and Lexington beat Plymouth, 33 to 19, in first round competition.

Bellville has won seven and lost two while Lexington and Ontario are tied for third place. They have won five and lost three.

Remainder of Friday's schedule finds Shiloh at Ontario, Bellville at Lexington and Plymouth at Lucas.

Whiz Kid Five Beats Indian Team, 45 to 37

After a slow start, the Memphis All-American Whiz Kids poured on the coal to defeat a plucky tribe of Oklahoma Indian basketeers, 45 to 37, last night at the Senior high gym before nearly 1,0000 fans.

The barnstorming Indians were apparently "beat" from their long trip east and were never in the game after the first period. At one time in the initial stanza, the Indians were in the van 11 to 7 but the clever Whiz Kids led at the quarter 15 to 13.

Sporting a 25 to 15 advantage at the halfway mark, the Whiz Kids put on a clever exhibition of ball handling in the third stanza and increased their margin to 35 to 21 as the final period opened. The Indians seemed to find a hidden reserve of strength in the last 10 minutes and outscored the colored boys, 16 to 10.

Big Charles Perry, Tuskegee center, led the scorers with 20 markers while Everett "Squint" Sweezy, Caddoes Indian, rammed home 14 points for the Warriors.

The Indians put on a short demonstration of war dances, singing and peace pipe smoking prior to the finale.

Ashland Athletic club rolled over Komito's Clothiers of the Mansfield City A basketball league in the preliminary tussle, 38 to 32. Ashland led at the intermission points, 11 to 7, 23 to 13, and 29 to 21.

Komito's moved to a 5-0 lead in the first period before Ashland splashed in 10 straight points. Don Hardy, Komito's, and Flory Bollo, Ashland, each had 10 points to lead the scorers.

It's Coach Snyder Of Los Angeles 11

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Bob Snyder, assistant to Adam Walsh as coach of the Los Angeles Rams, succeeded his former boss as head mentor today.

Snyder was a native of Fremont and later lived in Toledo before the Rams franchise was shifted from Cleveland to Los Angeles.

Walsh resigned at the close of the 1946 season in a surprise move.

Unbeaten High School Ranks Thinning Down

By JOHN BARRINGTON

Only a baker's dozen or so high school quintets pursued their merry way down the rainbow trail today toward the goal of an undefeated season.

Actually, victims in the erstwhile undefeated ranks were fewer than usual last week—chiefly because the starting field was smaller. Greater Cincinnati saw two winning streaks shattered and two others continued. Canton McKinley was left with the only perfect mark in that northern city as Lehman fell by the wayside after winning ten straight.

Newark St. Francis was upset by Zanesville St. Thomas, 43 to 41, and thereby had a 15-game skein fractured. The next night, St. Francis bounced back to whip Ohio Deaf, 37 to 26. Delphos St. John registered Elida's first loss in 13 games, 40 to 36.

Cincinnati Elder also staged a comeback, drubbing Roger Bacon, 62 to 25, after losing to Indianapolis Cathedral. Cincinnati Walnut Hills toyed with Huges, 35 to 20, but was upset by twice-beaten Hamilton, 39 to 35.

Lockland Wayne and North College Hill both continued to win. Wayne trounced Lincoln Grant, 57 to 30, while Hartwell fell before College Hill, 57 to 23.

Canton Lehman, after a number of close calls, was upset by Youngstown South, 34 to 27, Saturday night. The previous evening, Lehman had racked up a 42-38 decision over Timken.

Canton McKinley's string was stretched to ten with a double week-end success. Lincoln fell on Friday, 43-32, and the next night Youngstown Rayen was a 51-27 victim.

Nick Stevenson of the Bulldogs stole the show from his All-Ohio teammate, Pete Spera, against Lincoln with 22 points.

Cleveland was well represented by four unbeaten teams—Benedictine, which has won 22 straight, South, Euclid Shore and Westlake.

Bluffton's crack outfit chalked up two more for 11 in a row. The victims were Lima St. John, 62 to 34, and St. Marys, 66 to 46. Neil Schmidt, brilliant Bluffton forward, hit the basket for 29 against St. Marys.

Salem had a narrow squeak in defeating Warren, 42 to 41, for No. 7. Toledo Central breezed past Scott, 49 to 31; Chillicothe defeated Wilmington, 35 to 24, Upper Arlington toyed with Columbus Academy, 51 to 28, and Bryan spanked Montpelier, 41 to 30.

Newark, Ashland Findlay and East Liverpool were among once or twice beaten fives that looked impressive. Newark held its Central Ohio league lead by edging Zanesville, 47 to 44; Ashland (8-1) smashed Sandusky, 58 to 37; Findlay (8-2) was an easy 54-28 victor over Fostoria. East Liverpool, loser only to Salem, downed Steubenville, 57-44, and New Philadelphia, 56-46.

Hank Greenberg's Pay May Reach Top Strata

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK—(INS)—If it is true that the Pittsburgh Pirates bought Hank Greenberg from the Detroit Tigers without first discussing the transaction with him, it must be assumed that they are prepared to pay him the year's biggest baseball salary.

Reportedly Greenberg received $60,000 or more for last season, when he cowed one of his great comebacks as a slugger by leading the majors in homers and runs batted in, batting a .277 average and the absence from a dozen games.

Frank McKinney, new owner of the Pirates in association with Bing Crosby, must have optimistically figured Greenberg's selection would put the stratospheric gate of say $75,000 and must be prepared to meet it.

Greenberg's legs aren't what they used to be as he nears 37 and he quite possibly may fall into the slump this next season that will bring the end of his career but in baseball they pay off on what you did last year.

That's how the justly famous Bobo Newsom made his big score when he was a teammate of Greenberg at Detroit. In 1940, the large hunk of hurler from South Carolina won 21 games and lost only 5 and without a squibble accepted a contract said to have been for $35,000 for 1941. The next season Bobo could hardly get anybody out, lost 20 games and was sent to Washington, his haven when he finds himself out of work.

It isn't likely that Greenberg will have any place to turn to if he doesn't produce at Pittsburgh. He was moved out of the American league to make it possible for him to be sold to the Pirates and the rest of the National league clubs showed surprising indifference to the chances of snaring him.

Perhaps his paycheck frightened them off. It couldn't have been the player himself.

Larry McPhail of the New York Yankees insists that he tried to land the first baseman-outfielder but couldn't swing a deal which brings up the question as to why the New York Giants or the Philadelphia Phillies or any of the rest failed to angle for him.

Greenberg is personally popular in New York and would draw enough extra customers into the Polo grounds to pay his freight. He also might in this twilight of his slugging days set up a record with a 279-foot Polo grounds left field foul line at which to shoot home runs.

SHELBY COUNCIL OK'S $708,711 APPROPRIATION

Budget Is Largest in City's History, Monn Says.

By JOHN GRAY
N-J State Correspondent

SHELBY—Without one change, city council last night approved the annual appropriation ordinance totaling $708,711 for operation of the municipal government, city light and water companies and bond retirement during 1947.

The total appropriation to all departments for 1946 was $673,350, a record-breaking amount up to this year's ordinance.

Finance Director Chester P. Monn disclosed that the amount appropriated for the general fund from which the city is operated has dropped to $101,409 for 1947 as compared with $108,003 for 1946.

The decrease was attributed by Monn to the lowering of the property tax valuation here over the last two years The evaluation in 1944 was $9,713,000. In 1945, it dropped $255,424 and in 1946 another $350,525, making the evaluation for 1946 at $9,107,051.

The council set up $30,571 for general bond retirement and $30,759 for special assessments.

* * *

Utilities Costs Increase.

The increase in the appropriation bill came from funds set up for the Municipal Light and Water companies, Shelby's two city-owned utilities.

The total appropriation for the police department was $28,500 as compared with $23,300 for 1946 The increase came largely in the salary fund which jumped to $24,000 for 1947 as compared with $19 500 for last year.

All of the salary funds were upped for 1947 to take care of the increases granted by council to all of the city employes during 1946.

* * *

Board Needs Funds.

Monn told the council that the police pension board would probably have to cash in some of its quick assets to provide enough funds for operation this year with a patrolman's widow and another patrolman to be added to the pension list. The appropriation set up for this year was $2,369 to pay pensions as compared with $3,292 last year.

After an hour and a half of discussion and upon the recommendation of Mayor Frank Long, the council renewed the steam heat rate of $5,000 per year for the Shelby public schools.

L. A. Anderson, school board member, appeared to tell the council that the schools were in need of every cent that could be saved and could not afford an increase in the rate now in effect, which had been raised $700 for 1946.

Bucyrus Area Citizens Hold Nearly 50 Million In Savings

BUCYRUS—Financial holdings as of Jan 1 of citizens of Bucyrus and vicinity are approximately 50 million dollars, according to figures submitted yesterday by officials of the four Bucyrus banking institutions

Figures show that although the grand total deposits in the four banks is slightly under the January, 1946, figure, bankers explain that in reality deposits of citizens have increased. The discrepancy is due to the withdrawal of government deposits carried in banks during war years

Total deposits in the four local banks and two local loan companies Jan 1 were $21,302,104 as against $21,331,437 last year's figure.

War bond holdings of $28,000,000 are believed to be held by local owners and postal savings held locally are approximately $151,880.

Financial status of citizens is in marked contrast to the figure of 20 years ago when total deposits were $3,450,000. During depression years deposits slipped back to $2,379,891

SHELBY RELIEF COSTS PLUNGE

SHELBY — Relief expenditures in Shelby last year totaled $1,478 as compared with $1,732 for 1945, Finance Director Chester P Monn, who serves as relief director without pay, disclosed today in his annual report.

Administration costs were up slightly last year as compared with 1945, but the money spent on direct relief and medical services decreased, the report showed.

Administration costs were set at $382 in 1946 as compared with $378 for the previous year. The city spent $1,064 for direct relief last year and $32 for medical services as compared with $1,108 for direct relief in 1945 and $246 for medical services.

'Purity' Code To Be Enforced

PITTSBURGH —(U.P.)— Indication that National Collegiate Athletic association members will enforce sanctions against schools which do not abide by its new "purity" program was seen today after Fritz Crisler, Michigan football coach, criticized the southwest conference's rejection of the program.

Crisler spoke at two gatherings yesterday, and said that he believed the southwest conference eventually would go along with the new rulings rather than "secede" from the NCAA. He said he believed Tulane university was willing to drop out of its conference if it does not accept the purity rulings, which allow recruiting of athletes only on the campus itself.

The southwest conference wants to allow recruiting in the state in which the university is located. Crisler said that view "straddled" the issue of amateurism.

When it was passed at the NCAA's New York convention there were suggestions that NCAA schools should refuse to play schools which do not follow the program.

Dillard Preps For 1st Start

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Lithe Harrison Dillard, hailed by many as America's "greatest track athlete," prepped today for his first two major starts of the 1947 indoor campaign.

The 23-year-old ex-GI from Baldwin-Wallace college in suburban Berea, only trackster to win two first places in both the National collegiate and National AAU meets, goes to the markets Friday and Saturday.

Dillard will appear Friday at the Philadelphia Inquirer meet in Philadelphia's Convention hall, and the following night, at the Massachusetts K. of C. games in Boston.

Dillard is considered the United States' top threat in the 1948 Olympic games. Last season, he broke one world record over the low hurdles and tied another.

RIVER-TO-LAKE CANAL PLANNED

PITTSBURGH— (INS) —Revised plans for construction of a Lake Erie-Ohio river canal that would give the upper Ohio valley an inland "seaport," soon will be ready for presentation to congress.

Col. W. E. Lorence, Pittsburgh district army engineer, said today the new canal would, under the new proposals, provide for handling of some lake carriers into Pittsburgh. The canal has been in various blueprint stages since 1939.

The canal's cost has not as yet been definitely computed. However Colonel Lorence explained that plans are far enough along "to start construction tomorrow."

The proposed canal would run from Ashtabula, O., to Rochester at the mouth of the Beaver river, 27 miles below Pittsburgh. The 14-foot chanel would run up the Beaver and Mahoning rivers, through the Summit canal, Grand river reservoir and North canal—a total length of 105 miles.

Colonel Lorence said that the original overall cost was estimated at 240 million dollars on the basis of nine-foot channels.

Costs of a 14-foot channel would be much higher. In addition, construction and labor costs have risen sharply.

The army engineer pointed out the deeper channel would allow use of the canal by huge, self-propelled lake carriers, as well as river towboats and barges already operating on the Ohio and Mississippi rivers and their tributaries.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

ANOTHER OPPORTUNIST

King Eagle, he of the white head and tail, to whom all who fly look up with respect, had not gone to the Sunny South to spend the winter. He could have. Of course. Those great wings of his on which he so often sailed the sky cloud high could have taken him there with ease, but he did not choose to go.

"If the weather gets too bad, if there is too much snow, too much ice, we can always go a little way just far enough to be sure of enough to eat. We have a lot of relatives living in the Sunny South all the time, so it is home to them. But it wouldn't be home to me. We were born and grew up in this land of summer warmth and winter cold, an as long as the Big River isn't wholly under ice we will stay," said he to Mrs. Eagle. She agreed.

So they had remained, flying long distances up and down the Big River to visit the places where the water ran too fast to freeze or for some other reason was not frozen over. Sometimes they hunted for furred and feathered folk on land, but it was on the Big River that they depended for most of their food. They are not fussy about what they eat. Long ago they learned that when food is scarce no one who would live can be fussy about what he eats. So, while they would have liked fresh meat and fish at all times, they were thankful for anything they could eat, however old.

Perhaps it was from watching Crayw ing the Gull that they learned that the Big River provides much food to those who are not fussy and watch for it. So they watch the open places for dead fish and other things that float down under the ice to appear in the open water. Now and then they catch one of the duck folk who is hurt or ill.

King Eagle was flying high far, far up the Big River. He has wonderful eyes. There are none more wonderful. He can see great distances. This is a great help in finding food when times are hard and there is little to eat. Now as he looked far down the Big River covered with ice most of the way, so far away that had you or I been in this place we would have seen no more than a black spot, he saw a stretch of open water which he had planned to visit later. More than once he had found a dead fish or something else he could get floating there.

Now he saw on the ice above the open water something that caused him to check his slow circling and look intently. Then he skated toward that place at top speed.

"Reddy Fox and Billy Mink fighting over something!" he exclaimed under his breath. "Long ago I found out that what two folks fight for some one else may get. It often pays to be on hand where there is a fight. Ha! a fish! I thought as much. Billy Mink must have caught it; Reddy Fox couldn't. Reddy has taken it away from him and Billy is trying to get it back. He would. I don't suppose the little fellow knows what fear is."

It didn't take King Eagle long to reach the place where Reddy Fox and Billy Mink were quarreling over a fine fish which Billy had caught but Reddy had taken from him. Billy had given him no chance to get it or get away with it. Billy was trying to pull the fish back into the water.

So intent on quarreling were they that they did not see King Eagle at all, not even when he came down on the ice close to them.

"It is my fish!" hissed Billy Mink.

"It is mine!" snarled Reddy.

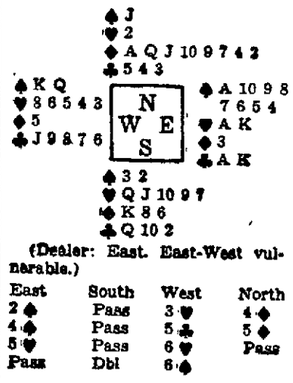
"You are both mistaken; it is mine," said King Eagle, and it was. Reddy and Billy were so startled that they jumped aside and King Eagle made the most of opportunity. He clutched that fish in his great curved claws.

The fighters looked at those great claws and at King Eagle's hooked bill and fierce eyes and knew that he spoke truly. "Robber!" both cried.

Then Billy Mink dived into the water to try for another fish, and Reddy Fox looked on from a respectful distance as King Eagle ate the fish.

Barclay On Bridge

AMONG ALL the spots in which a player should not make a business double, the outstanding is that in which he is likely to scare the opponents out of a beatable contract into a makable one. That applies alike to slam, game and part-score contracts. The prospective doubler should be particularly wary if the opponents have bid a couple of different suits, or more, so that there is high probability another suit will break fortuitously for them.



(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
2♠	Pass	3♥	4♦
4♠	Pass	5♣	5♦
5♥	Pass	6♥	Pass
Pass	Dbl	6♠

It's pretty hard to imagine a more unsound double than South made, when he could take three trump tricks beyond peradventure of a doubt if the opponents played the hand at hearts. If he had been prepared also to double 6-Spades or 6-No Trumps, in case his double scared them into that, then it would have been okeh. But he had no defense against those declarations.

South led his diamond K, North overtaking with the A and switching to his heart 2. After taking that, East took out the hostile trumps with the K and Q, then spread his hand.

If South had kept his mouth shut, and merely exulted silently, when West was in 6-Hearts, his side would have scored four tricks, one in diamonds in addition to three in trumps, and so would have beaten the contract three tricks.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, January 22.

A calm, considered and well-planned course of action, might be the means of attainment of desired objectives, in which production is increased, progress and improvements of importance are in sight. Patience, well-organized techniques, calm and shrewd activities may secure such fruition, but a tendency toward the rash, ungoverned and intemperate may defeat sound efforts and best-laid plans. The judgment may likewise be obscure and prone to complicate affairs by haste and over-optimistic action. Maintain calm and composure.

Those whose birthday it is, while having fairly encouraging prospects for growth, expansion and fulfilled ambitions, there are also factors to be considered as working against such lucrative and productive situations. The mentality may be obscured, confused and unable to form sound judgment, being aggravated by a proclivity to rush, with reckless and half-baked plans and programs, which result in frustration and disappointment. Sound study, well-directed energies calm and routine endeavors, with patience and determination, might eventually crown sagacious and shrewd grasp of propitious events.

A child born on this day while having some fair prospects, with sturdy and constructive ability, has also an indecisive mentality with reckless, over-zealous energy, tending toward defeat and frustration.

MANSFIELD Eats 532 Tons of Food Every Week!

EVERY WEEK, every adult in your town consumes an average of 28 pounds of food. It adds up to a pretty sizeable amount.

Some of this food, particularly during the summer months, is produced right here. But much of it comes many hundreds of miles from Western cattle ranges and wheat fields, citrus groves, far-off fisheries, and other distant food raising areas.

Bringing good eating to your table from every part of the country, at low cost, is an important part of Erie Railroad's service to your community. It is one of the many ways the Erie constantly helps make your town a bigger, better, more prosperous place to live, by linking it with all America.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

Heedless of an impatient queue behind him, a Scotchman at a Grand Central ticket window counted his change very carefully three times before putting it into his purse.

The ticket-seller watched him sourly. "Well," he said, "are you finally satisfied it's right?"

"Aye, mon," said the Scot angrily, "but only just right."

If you can believe the statisticians of Judge magazine, what the scarf said to the hat was, "You go ahead. I wanna neck." One eye pointed out to the other eye, "Just between us, there's something that smells." The key asked the keyhole, "What do you hear from the knob?" And one stocking said to its mate, "So long, I gotta run." High time, too, if you ask me!

Uncle Rastus carefully spelled out the inscription on a tombstone: "Not dead but sleeping." He chuckled and remarked to his wife, "Dat boy ain't foolin' nobody but hisself."

Career-men of Tomorrow Carry News-Journals Today

Potentially they might be lawyers, architects or a priest, but after school they're "just boys" with a News-Journal paper sack over their shoulders.

For the most part, carriers Bob Pryor, George Zaros, Donald Whipp, William Pifher and brothers, Keith and Kenneth Hergatt of the Hedges district, have a few plans for those after-graduation years. But it's mostly too early to think a lot about them—hobbies and Scout troops take up too much time.

The Pryor and Whipp lads, both 13, are members of Boy Scout Troop 5. Whipp, who wants "to be a lawyer," has chosen boxing and swimming for his recreation, while Pryor, a real winter "outdoors man," favors ice skating and hunting.

In one year and three months on Route 48, Whipp has saved $430 from the business his 115 customers have given him. The Johnny Appleseed eighth grader is the son of Mr and Mrs Paul Whipp, 84 Flint street.

* * *

PRYOR HASN'T had a chance to save much from two weeks on Route 127, but he's trying hard to please those 93 customers. Bob took the route over from his brother, Bernard. Enrolled in the sixth grade at Hedges, Bob is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Pryor, 59 East First street.

Zaros, oldest of the boys this week, is 14 and plans to study architecture. He's making sure he'll have some capital to start that higher education on, too, for he's saved $130 in a year of carrying Route 49. An all-round sportsman, Zaros likes swimming in the summer and ice skating in the winter. He is the son of Mrs. John D. Zaros, 26 West Augustine avenue.

Pifher seems to have "inherited" his route. Last September when William's brother, Ronald, left for seminary, the 11-year-old took over on Route 143. He's the little fellow who distributes the late editions daily at the city building. After sixth grade classes are out at St. Peter's parochial school. William has time for fishing, ice skating or the boats he so enjoys making from wood. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Pifher, 144 East Fifth street.

* * *

KENNY HERGATT'S nine years makes him the youngest of the group, but the lack of years seems no handicap in helping his brother, Keith on Route 47.

Keith took the route a year and a half ago. Kenny joined him a year ago and now the two have "split up" the route and have saved $80 between them. Keith also has some savings bonds.

Adventure stories are just about Keith's pick of the crop for entertainment, while Kenny finds plenty to keep him busy by being a member of Cub Pack 4. Keith is in the seventh grade at Johnny Appleseed junior high, while Kenny is a member of the fourth grade class at Hedges. Both are the sons of Mrs. Donna Sibley, 31 Flint street.

BRAZIL SENDS STERN PROTEST NOTE TO REDS

Coolness Between 2 Nations Hints Possible Break.

RIO DE JANEIRO — (INS) — A stern note indicating Brazilian coolness in diplomatic relations with Russia added fuel today to unconfirmed but persistent rumors that the Rio De Janeiro government is considering an open break with Moscow.

The note, denouncing Soviet charges in the recent beating of a Brazilian embassy official at Moscow, coincided with tabulation of election results showing the Communist party won important victories in two key states of Brazil and showed unexpected strength in other areas.

Foreign Minister Raul Fernandes, in an official note released for publication, revealed that he is approving the request of Brazilian Ambassador Pimental Brando "to leave Moscow for reasons of health."

The foreign ministry's note first denied Moscow's charges that Joao Batista Soares Depina, second secretary of the Brazilian embassy in Moscow, had created a drunken disorder in a hotel at the Soviet capital and therefore had to be expelled last month.

In addition, the note rejected flatly Soviet demands for damages as a result of the alleged "disorder," and counter-charged that Brazilian Ambassador Brando was forced to live in "precarious installations in Moscow subject to the sternest regulations and without the right to choose his own staff of servants."

The note added:

"Conditions are far from meeting the expected reciprocity which is accorded the Russian ambassador in Brazil."

Timing of the foreign ministry release, and revelation of Brando's departure, coming as it did with the heavy show of popular strength by the Communists in the Brazilian elections gave impetus to the rumors that the government planned an imminent shutdown of the Communist party headquarters and considered the break with Russia.

Although sparkling wines were known to antiquity, champagne was not perfected until 1670.

ACCUSED—Robert C. Love, socially-prominent former president of the First Securities Co., of New Castle, Pa., has been charged with embezzling $220,000 from the securities company. Love is former manager of the Buenos Aires branch of the City Bank of New York, and handled the estate of his father-in-law, the late tinplate tycoon, George Greer.—

Esther, Who's an Expert, Frowns on New Swim Togs

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— Esther Williams, an expert on bathing suits and what goes inside 'em, eyed those next-to-nothing French beach togs today and dashed to rescue the American woman.

Gals, she says you can't wear those glorified G-strings. Esther has other plans for you, so draw up a tape measure and listen

"Most women look horrible in bathing suits because they don't know how to buy them," she said

Stick to the good old one and two-piece bathing suit that cover up what society now intended you to show, is her advice.

"Those French suits wouldn't look good on anybody' the swimming star said, "No, not even me.'

The suits, in case you didn't see 'em in the magazine consist of skimpy brief bras and wisps of panties that leave little under cover.

"Very few women have good shapes," pointed out Esther, who has one. "The rest would look sad with hardly any clothes on."

And even the well-stacked gals, she continued, shouldn't expose so much

"A torso covered up with loud hints as to what is underneath is more tantalizing to a man than naked skin," she said.

Isn't she right, men? Look at silk stockings, and hat veils, and filmy negligees.

So all right. Hang those French suits on a hickory limb and go near the water in a suit offered you by Miss Williams.

"Women spend a lot of time having street suits tailored," she said. "But they buy any old bathing suit, and never think of having it altered."

After all, she said, the beach is where a man really sees what his gal looks like.

Hi 'ya, Strangers! Anybody did you pick a time like this to come to New York? The gulls are gray, the skies are veiled in smog, the footprints of Manhattan's millions are black on the waterfronts, and the wind wraps itself around the corners of the skyscrapers like wet sheets on a Winter wash line.

Still, I know why you came. You're here because, even when the town is tattle-tale gray, it's the world's most exciting island. If you can make your way through the murky subways, and to flat-topped side-streets you can find time and wondrous things to do day or by evening.

* * *

One good way to get away from-it-all on a chilly afternoon is the Museum of Modern Art's matinee showings of films movies. These have such great historic value that you'd be educated as well as entertained—but you'd never note the education, you'll be so enhanced. You'll be surprised, perhaps, to note that Douglas Fairbanks still holds his own as king of the swashbucklers, with a new crop of teen-agers and younger sitting in stunned, nail-biting silence while the dark-wit Doug swings from balcony and chandeliers with a dash that never has been equalled. There are showings every afternoon, usually at 3 and 5:30. Try it sometime. Those films are treasures you can't ever see in your home town.

* * *

Another new place, to you, will be the Park Avenue Theatre, which started out as a subscription palace but quickly reverted to the masses who like to take in their movies without excessive planning. Try the two-seater divans; they're easy on the spine and nice for hand-holding.

If you're up from the South, and yearn for a mess of chitlins or a heaping plate of crispy-golden Southern fried chicken step into the Dogwood Room, where Little Mitchell Pierce, a blossom from below the Mason-Dixon Line, will provide victuals which are claimed to be as authentic as Jefferson Davis. If you're from the fjords, or even if you're just from Montana but your spirits have sunk as low as the sidewalk slush, drop into the Stockholm for a cup of Swedish punch that can be sipped in front of a heart and foot-warming fireplace.

* * *

Do you like magicians? There's a fine one, named Frackson, over at the Glass Hat of the Belmont Plaza—one of the world's best. Watch him and spend the rest of the week trying to figure out how he does the disappearing radio trick. Don't forget New York now has a repertory theatre, and an excellent one—the American Repertory Theatre on Columbus Circle. They do a variety, including Ibsen and Shaw, but I think the one you will probably enjoy most, if you're not in an experimental mood, is J. M. Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows," with Eva LeGallienne playing the flirtatious Frenchwoman in a manner that I'm sure would make her the toast of Paris.

Do you steep it enough ?

Scald a crockery teapot. Put in one teaspoonful of tea or one tea-bag for each person. Add fresh, "bubbling" boiling water. Steep for five minutes. Stir, then serve.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

Switzerland, which always seems to behave itself and get along all right, is now reported as enjoying a super-boom.

Better brush up on Mansfielders who are sojourning in Florida, so that when they return you can let on as if you missed them.

A "protective tariff" was originally designed to safeguard "infant industries" against imported products of cheap labor—but that was before the One World idea had taken form.

Governor Herbert Outlines Policies

RECOGNITION of a large number of Ohio's needs—with determination to do something about them—provided an impressive high-light in Governor Thomas J. Herbert's message to the state legislature last night.

The message, which evidenced careful preparation, presented a thoughtful discussion of public affairs, with emphasis on the importance of proceeding with the solution of many problems which were unavoidably postponed because of the war.

These, he said, "will require hard work, deep study, mutual understanding, tolerance and vision, if fair and reasonable permanent solutions are to be achieved."

Call for additional appropriations for education, public libraries, welfare, health, highways, agriculture, state employes' salaries and GI on-the-job training programs is a natural requirement of growing needs and higher costs.

The governor is also on sound ground, it appears, in delaying recommendation of tax reductions until a report has been received from the state tax commission, which is concluding a study of Ohio's entire tax situation.

Preference for state financing of its own operations was evidenced by Governor Herbert in the statement: "Ohio is competent to stand on its own feet in matters relating to public health. I am confident that the people of Ohio desire our state government to meet its own responsibilities in that direction."

With governor and legislature working in harmony, as may be expected, it seems reasonable to anticipate many worthwhile accomplishments within the next couple of years.

Expect Luxury Taxes To Continue

DELAY in decision on extension of the present federal 20 per cent luxury taxes is not good. It is resulting in a feeling of uncertainty that is hampering the sale of affected items such as furs, jewelry, etc., with many prospective purchasers waiting to see what congress plans to do about either removing or considerably reducing this exorbitant tax.

While the Republican majority, in the first flush of victory, promised some big things in the way of tax reductions, many members of congress seem to have been quite seriously impressed by President Truman's admonition against tax cuts and his urgent request that wartime excise taxes be continued at present rates for at least a year.

While this will be the probable outcome, some definite action should be taken without further delay, so that merchants and the buying public alike will know where they stand.

Beware of Hitchhiking Strangers!

ONE humanitarian impulse that should be firmly resisted by motorists is that of picking up a hitchhiking stranger, regardless of how innocent or worthy the fellow may appear.

The record of crimes of violence—including murder—that stands against hitchhikers is too impressive to be disregarded, and a recent series of such offenses gives timeliness to repetition of previous warnings against taking chances with total strangers who stand along street or highway "thumbing a ride."

Despite warnings, however, it is quite probable that some motorists will consider it callous and selfish to drive past an apparently harmless youth whose thumb is pleading earnestly for a pickup. To any such kind hearted persons it may be suggested that they be in readiness to protect themselves in event of attack—as there is an element of danger to life and property involved every time a hitchhiker is picked up.

Fall 'Loosely', Safety Council Advises

FOR THESE DAYS when it's impossible to tell at night whether you'll walk, ride or slide to work in the morning, the Mansfield Safety Council has some wise words.

"Get the habit of walking on the balls of your feet," the council advises. "If you feel yourself slipping, try to relax and fall as loosely as possible. Falling with the body tense is more likely to cause serious injury."

To this might be added a repetition of a bit of old advice to property owners and tenants: obey the law and keep your sidewalks clear of ice and snow. It will not only keep you a law-abiding citizen but it will earn you the gratitude of every passer-by.

Book That Answers Questions

HERE IT IS AGAIN! That one indispensable book which changes greatly each year but which steadily continues as a compact, dependable source of the thousand-and-one bits of information that must be turned to from time to time through the year, "to refresh recollection", as the lawyers are wont to say.

"What is it?" you ask—although you should already know. Why, quite naturally it is the 1947 issue of the World Almanac—and it's the biggest dollar's worth of book you'll find anywhere with more information about more things in its 912 pages than you would think possible. If it isn't on the newsstands out it will be soon—and you'd better speak for a copy—there'll probably not be enough to go round.

For the benefit of beginners in atomic energy research, it is being disclosed that a little primer on the subject is entitled: "A semi-quantitative method for the spectographic analysis of small quantities of powder."

The Akron Beacon Journal suggests: "Instead of worrying about whether General Marshall can get along with the Russians, why not let the Russians worry about whether they can get along with him?"

With the ice said to be 14 miles thick in some parts of Antarctica, Clyde Moore concludes that "anything we take over down there may be listed as frozen assets."

GOOD TIME TO PLAY "FOLLOW THE LEADER"

Truman Speaks Out In Opposition To Bigotry and Racial Prejudice

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — At the exact moment President Truman's tight-rope-walking Secretary of War Bob Patterson was refusing to help beleagured Gov. Ellis Arnall of Georgia, President Truman himself was blasting Arnall's chief foe, the Ku Klux Klan.

Truman's blast took place at the first meeting of his committee on civil rights, organized to combat bigotry and race prejudice.

The president talked straight-from-the-shoulder and the churchmen, businessmen and educators who comprise his committee were greatly impressed.

Livest member of the new committee turned out to be Charles Luckman, head of the giant Lever Brothers Soap company. Dullest was Charles E. Wilson, pontifical head of General Electric. Appointed chairman of the civil rights group because he knew Truman back in the days of the old Truman committee, Wilson seemed more engrossed in details than in big objectives.

New York attorney Morris Ernst, author of "The Four Freedoms," caused a buzz of discussion at the closed-door meeting when he proposed:

"Why not invite the Ku Klux Klan, the Columbians and Gerald L. K. Smith to give us their views on racial prejudice also? There is no reason why we should shut our ears and hear only one side. Our final report will be stronger if we hear both sides."

Another proposal the civil rights committee considered was withholding federal funds from state universities which discriminated against racial or religious groups. Such a provision, introduced by Republican Senator Langer of North Dakota two years ago, killed the federal education fund, aimed at aiding public schools and raising teachers' salaries. When Langer introduced his nondiscrimination amendment, southern congressmen threatened a filibuster.

Note — Mainspring behind the organization of the civil rights committee was Attorney General Tom Clark who, though from the south, has consistently crusaded for protection of civil rights.

Will Marshall Get Tough?

Friends of new Secretary of State Marshall report that while resting in Hawaii he was studying plans for reorganization of the state department, including a knock-down, drag-out battle with the so-called white-spat career diplomats who for years have had a closed shop on U. S. foreign policy.

General Marshall already has had the benefit of a thorough state department study made for him by the former secretary of the U. S. general staff, Col. Frank McCarthy who, like Marshall, is a Virginia Military Institute graduate. Originally Jimmie Byrnes appointed McCarthy assistant secretary of state with the job of reorganizing the state department.

But the career clique, just as skillful at closed-shop techniques as John L. Lewis, bogged him down. Tenderly and adroitly they cut McCarthy off from Byrnes. Sick and disgusted, McCarthy finally resigned.

In the interim, Byrnes' South Carolina law partner, efficient Donald Russell, has carried on in McCarthy's place. Even he, however, has had trouble bucking the kingpins of career diplomats. Russell has championed the principle of the career service, has tried to boost the younger, live-wire diplomats, has set up joint diplomatic schools with the army-navy and has demanded that all diplomats get a chance to come home on occasional visits so they won't forget they're still Americans.

Diplomatic Closed Shop.

However, not even Russell, good as he is and close as he is to Jimmie Byrnes, could budge the career kingpins' closed shop. In the last two weeks of Byrnes rule, they succeeded in:

1. Blocking Russell's plan to move the state department out of its ancient palace to a more efficient building.

2. Starting a boom for Freeman Mathews, detailed and dull, to become undersecretary of state.

3. Putting a few road-blocks in the path of hard-working Assistant Secretary Bill Benton.

Finally the kingpins almost put their man, Sam Reber, in the office of international conferences. Reber is sometimes referred to as "the so-called Sam Reber" because he authored Cordell Hull's wartime statement blasting deGaulle's forces as the "so-called Free French."

With the USA now trying to build up middle-of-the-road and deGaulle Frenchmen as against Communist Frenchmen, Reber's appointment to a job handling international conferences was frowned upon.

This is some of the finagling inside the state department reported to Marshall during his so-called vacation. Meanwhile, Marshall is on the lookout for some hard-headed aides who can recognize deadwood when they see it.

Dave Boone Says:

WASHINGTON can't even run the post offices and break even. The president says that department lost $276,000,000 delivering your letters last year and will lose $352,000,000 this year. And it's been upping the price of stamps for a decade!

* * *

That's one business, it seems to me, most anybody would be ashamed to have and not make money. There's no competition. The customers take what they can get. And it's an old, established enterprise.

* * *

But congress is told higher postal rates are needed. The old two-cent stamp has been gone for years and if you want to send a special it now costs thirteen cents, or almost enough to deliver it yourself. I've got a feeling that it's changing the shape, size and price of stamps that is keeping the P. O. department in the red.

* * *

The mere overhead of thinking up, designing, printing and announcing new-style stamps every few months must be terrific. And it must cost a lot more to produce a stamp. Gosh! They've got 'em in sizes so big now you can hardly get 'em on an envelope.

Farmer's Diary: "Evening at Home."

IT WAS damp and sloshy underfoot, murky overhead — sky low, trees dripping. Our cottage at the foot of the hill, along the gravel road, showed light in every window. It looked cozy and I thought how pleasant a quiet evening at home may be.

I hesitated on the porch, for I heard the blatant notes of my second son's trombone, vainly struggling to "Lightly Row." The trombone suits that boy and I'm sure he will learn to play it—though it what he is doing now is "light" perhaps the rafters cannot stand a "heavy" number!

The nine-year-old, at the piano, was doing scales. Biding his time until he could get a hearing. And in the kitchen, while the supper dishes rattled, the littlest lad was shrilly demanding of his mother to know the meaning of certain words which he spelled from a picture book "Barbat, the Elephant."

I came meekly into the kitchen, and was promptly buttonholed as interpreter for the elephant, while my wife with a gleeful grin, hung up the dish towel and slipped away into the bedroom-study-office where she began to clatter away at the typewriter, with remote concentration.

Everything was lovely for a while. The various noises blended intimately with the splash of rain on the window. Any chance passer-by must have surmised that we were all at home. Even Muggins, the cat, spiraled a bright mouthy note or two from the space beneath the floor of the cast room, where she entertains, from time to time, such of her friends as happen to be out at night, and Skipper, the black spaniel grumbled in his throat when the trombone came too close to his ear.

We finished the elephant story very nice, it was a translation from the French, with delightful, impossible pictures. The little boy showed me his best handwriting, and he and I refilled the wood stove—for my wife had a dozen cans of meat on top, in the steam cooker.

The oldest boy finished his Latin: the trombone was put away; the pianist entertained us with his newest number. I was sleepy, so I laid me down and took a half-hour nap. When I awoke, the house was quiet. The boys had gone to bed. My wife had stopped typing, and was reading the Atlantic Monthly. The meat was burbling away, until the odor had permeated the house.

"It's time you stopped snoring," she said. "I was afraid you wouldn't wake up in time to go to bed. Now write your column while I screw on the lids and put things away."

So I did.

Substandard Schools May Be Given Help.

WASHINGTON — If one correspondent's mail can be considered any criterion, a lot of school teachers across the country are wondering just what action the new congress is going to take about the shamefully low salaries paid to the nation's public educators.

And they are not alone.

Ex-teachers also wonder. (Some of the 600,000 who have quit in the past five years might come back).

Board members also wonder. So do parents. And here and there, even a grade school child expresses a strangely solemn curiosity on the question.

About the only definite answer which currently can be given to the question is to say that, unless the situation changes drastically in the next few weeks, some sort of federal measure will be passed, appropriating money to aid substandard schools.

Nevada's Senator Pat McCarran has introduced one measure providing federal aid. Vermont's Senator George Aiken has come forward with another. Ohio's Robert Taft and Alabama's Lister Hill are two more senators with school aid measures on their minds. Jointly they sponsored such a bill last session, and now may revive it, or swing their support behind a similar one.

Currently, McCarran's measure seems least likely to become law—for simple political reasons. The Nevadan is a Democrat. If this Republican congress elects to aid the nation's schools and teachers, it naturally will prefer that such aid ride in a GOP-sponsored vehicle, or at least, a bi-partisan bill.

Revival of the Taft (Republican) and Hill (Democrat) measure might fit that compromise pattern, but until their now slightly stale legislative pie is reheated, the bill drafted by Senator Aiken, the Putney Republican, becomes most prominent.

It would authorize federal appropriations varying from 400 million dollars in 1948 to one billion, two hundred million dollars in 1952 and thereafter.

Sounds like a lot of taxpayers' scratch, but as one senator said "It's only a drop in the bucket compared to the annual cost of crime, or the weekly cost of war."

He seemed to see some connection between those calamities and the lack of education.

Literally speaking, little of that dough would go directly to the teacher. Most of it would be used for pupil transportation, health services, supplies and equipment, including books.

But it would relieve the budget of many a hard-pressed district and permit paying teachers at least slightly more.

In addition, it and similar (such as the Taft-Hill and McCarran) measures would tend to equalize educational opportunities in all states. Far too often today, states with the most pupils have the fewest sources of income for financing schools. Such a move would give basic educational aid where it was most needed, simultaneously financing it by the tax method of tagging those sources best able to pay.

That latter point may arouse the lobbying ire of some large corporations who understanably prefer to keep the school tax burden as localized and as much on the shoulders of real estate as possible.

However, all the bills yet offered neatly sidestep one major legislative roadblock—the state's rights issue. They stress that the states must do their share and that the federal aid "includes absolutely no federal control of the administration of education in the states."

Reciprocal Tariff Program Under Fire.

WASHINGTON — Every so often in this postwar period something bobs up here that is strangely familiar — particularly to one who saw it all happen, first hand. It is so much like what occurred after World War 1.

What turned out to be one of the most disastrous developments of that era in the 20's, when we were backing away from our obligations to the rest of the world, was the raising of our tariffs higher and higher in three sucessive acts of congress.

After a depression and a world war we saw the error of our ways and devised our reciprocal tariff program for mutual lowering of tariffs by negotiations with other nations.

Now, remindful of that other postwar period, is the activity in congress among Republicans, still scattered, it is true, designed to weaken or break down the reciprocal tariff program which is such an important part of our economic co-operation with other nations.

Some of it may be for home consumption. But it is increasing.

It seemed to become of more than minor importance when Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.) took it upon himself the other day to warn the state department to go slow with its new negotiations for lowering our tariffs in keeping with the law and our commitments.

For the Michigan senator, who voted in the last congress for extension of the reciprocal-tariff program for three years, has pushed himself forward as the shining symbol of bipartisan cooperation on foreign policy. He has accepted the mantle and has assumed to wear it.

With his veiled threat, he didn't say "or else." But before and since there have been developments of the "or else" variety in proposals ranging from revision of the reciprocal tariff negotiating system, some of which would nullify it in effect, to outright repeal. Bills and resolutions are being introduced, and speeches delivered from the hip.

The Reciprocal Tariff Act expires June 30, 1948, under terms of its most recent extension. Its further extension thus will come up before the 1948 national political conventions. The subject by then will become more deeply involved in politics than it is now.

The people will have no opportunity to pass upon it before then. It will be in the hands of congress and the politicians. Republicans agree publicly that our people want international cooperation. That has many angles, important among them being economic cooperation which includes mutual lowering of tariffs to promote trade. The people are not aware of all the angles, but they expect the Republican party to keep faith.

There are special interests which are keenly aware of the angles, including tariffs. Many of these are powerful locally in politics, for obvious reasons. They will use their influence to break down the program. In fact, they are already busy at it.

The member of congress can choose whether to serve these strictly local interests or the national welfare. Some are now flirting with those interests and it is well to keep an eye on them, or the first thing we know will be headed back again.

This is the time of real testing for Republicans on the sincerity of their pledges of full international co-operation.

Involved as it is in politics, and in both parties, too—for some Democrats also oppose the program—the stake at issue far transcends politics and goes directly to the public welfare in the promotion of trade and prosperity among all nations.

Small Business Defenders Meet Obstacles.

WASHINGTON—In the dispute over whether the senate should continue the old war-investigating committee, the life of another special committee was also at stake. That was Sen. James E. Murray's small-business group, which has been both an economic and a political forum attracting national notice.

Small business is a phrase to conjure with. It invokes the hopes and fears of small industrialists and businessmen who are feeling the pinch of big-business competition.

That is particularly true now, since the centralizing force of the war and the spending of billions of government money made the big boys bigger and more powerful.

Murray, shortly after congress convened, was all ready to go ahead with an inquiry into the newspaper business. The committee counsel, Dewey Anderson, had prepared the way for a series of hearings which would have shown how smaller papers are being squeezed by the newsprint shortage.

The committee had in its files a potent document charging monopolistic practices in newsprint production. Thurman Arnold's last act before he resigned as head of the anti-trust division in the Department of justice was to ask the federal trade commission to make a newsprint investigation.

The commission's report charged firms in the United States and Canada with fixing a uniform price throughout the country. Decisions by the combine, according to the trade commission report, were taken in Canada in order to escape the penalties of the anti-trust laws in this country.

Shortly before the small-business committee's hearings into the newspaper business were to start, the Republicans ordered a halt. They pointed out that there was some doubt whether the committee would be continued. Later, Sen. Kenneth S. Wherry of Nebraska, the Republican who would probably fall heir to the chairmanship, indicated that, while the Republicans might eventually approve a newspaper inquiry, it would take a somewhat different direction than the one planned under the Democratic majority.

In planning the committee investigation, Anderson had had the help of Morris L. Ernst, New York lawyer who recently published a book, "The First Freedom," attacking the growing concentration of control over press and radio. Ernst had in turn enlisted the help of several expert researchers, who have completed a study showing the way in which the number of newspapers had steadily declined and showing the number of towns and cities in which only one newspaper is left.

This was the negative aspect. On the positive side the committee was ready to present witnesses who would give the details of a plan for increasing the supply of newsprint.

One of these witnesses was to have been Secretary of the Interior Julius A. Krug. He had prepared the outline of a plan for tapping the vast forest resources of Alaska as a source of newsprint. In Alaska are the last great stands of timber readily available to United States consumers.

The hitch in Alaska is the need for low-cost power. Power was part of Krug's plan. He was prepared to present the committee with a scheme for public power production in Alaska.

It is possible that the Krug plan will still be made public. The newsprint shortage is as acute as ever. Big publishing firms are scrambling to buy newsprint mills. The price of newsprint is $85 a ton on the open market, with reports that up to $140 a ton is being paid in black market.

But whether the plan will be unveiled before the small-business committee is a question. No matter what happens to that committee the newspaper investigation, the federal trade commission report on newsprint will soon be made public. While it may be the last act of those who now direct the committee, they are determined to get it out.

Timely Editorial

The Idea Is a Good One.

Doctors who write and lecture are increasingly active in promoting the idea of taking winter vacations. They tell us that two weeks to a month taken out of the middle of our northern winters and spent in the sunshine of the south are more conducive to health than vacations in summer here at home.

They point out that all summer we in the northern belt can get out of doors over weekends and other times so that vacations taken here at that time are a sort of carrying coals to Newcastle.

That is perfectly lovely and we heartily agree. Now if our good friends, the writing doctors, will wave a magic wand and settle the economic side of the winter vacation in the sunny south, we may all change our habits.

But cold reality tells us that the few, rather than the many, may enjoy winter vacations in the southern resorts. — Ohio State Journal.

HERBERT SEEKS TO ALTER OHIO TAX STRUCTURE

New Governor Says Taxpayers Deserve a 'Break.'

He urged an opportunity be given voters at next November elections to decide on payment of veterans' bonuses, but said "calm and careful study should be given to determining ways and means of financing."

Legislation affecting veterans—other than a bonus—should be determined he asserted, after the adjutant general reported on benefits derived from $6,000,000 previously allocated counties for veterans' housing.

Favors Levies.

Pending a definite course, the chief executive indicated the present tax structure should be maintained by urging re-enactment of levies on cigarets, liquor, fuel, and gross receipts of public utilities. Those taxes, which last year yielded about $45,000,000, expire by limitation next March 31.

The governor discussed subjects contained in the party's state platform, but only general recommendations were made for a number of them. Some approved increased expenditures in fields where large sums are sought.

He said larger appropriations were "clearly indicated" for state universities and added that those schools also were considering a boost in student fees to help ease their financial difficulties.

He also recommended "adequate funds" for public school boards of education to meet their critical problems.

Statutory salaries of appointive state officials should be raised, the governor said, and by intimation he included elective officials in that category.

Calling for a start on the war-delayed welfare building program, Herbert said he would seek more money to complete Mt. Vernon State hospital and asked a study to speed purchase and remodeling of Cambridge State hospital.

Additional health department appropriations also will be sought so the state can assume basic services now financed by the federal government. A start also should be made, Herbert said, on proposals for tuberculosis control. They included:

Construction of a 300-bed hospital in connection with the proposed Ohio State University medical center; four 200-bed hospitals elsewhere to serve sections now lacking such facilities, and a program of state financial assistance to counties maintaining them.

A study of the state liquor monopoly designed to eliminate "what evils are inherent in the system" was called for, along with creation of a legislative commission to outline a plan for combating juvenile delinquency.

Immediate expansion of rural, farm-to-market and arterial highways was demanded as well as appropriations to permit the state to match federal road grants. He also requested sufficient funds to carry out a new $9,000,000 highway improvement program scheduled to start next spring.

"I favor the use exclusively for highway purposes of all revenues received from taxes imposed upon the use of motor vehicles on the public highways and the fuel used in such vehicles," Herbert stated. He indicated the one-cent liquid fuel tax could be expected so long as other revenues were adequate.

In the labor field, Herbert recommended legislative study of laws enacted by other states "providing for cooling off periods, mediation and arbitration" to determine the need for similar laws in Ohio.

Hits Public Strikes.

He asserted that labor-management contracts should be "binding on both parties" and that "strikes against the government cannot be tolerated and should pe prohibited by statute."

Concerning fair employment practices, the governor expressed belief that "equality of opportunity should be available to all, regardless of race, color or creed through consideration of sound and workable fair employment practices legislation."

Other recommendations included:

Extension of livestock and plant disease control probrams.

Sufficient funds for conducting civil service examinations in addition to those already started in the liquor department.

Creation of a single department of conservation, and clamation and conservation of strip mined lands.

An Ohio superintendent of insurance appointed by the governor, subject to senate confirmation, as a salary of at least $7,500 annually, and revision of state insurance laws to prevent federal encroachment.

Legislation to help cities eliminate blighted areas, and municipalities to provide off-street automobile parking facilities.

Appropriations sufficient to discharge the state's responsibility under the GI bill for on-the-job and apprentice training of veterans.

Further financial assistance to public libraries.

Creation of a commission to solve the problem of housing state departments now overflowing offices in Columbus and other cities.

Provision for a better state fair setup, replacing facilities which were termed "inadequate" at present.

A survey of the volume of cases handled by municipal courts to determine whether the number of judges should be increased or decreased.

GOV. THOMAS J. HERBERT is shown here delivering his initial message to the Ohio legislature. He declared his general objective remains unchanged for reduction or revision of tax structure. (AP Wirephoto)

POLICE HUNT FEMALE KILLER

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—(UP)—Police made a complete about-face today in their efforts to find the torture-murderer of pretty Elizabeth Short, and began an intensive search for a woman, rather than a man, as the mutilator of the "Black Dahlia."

Former roommates of the strikingly beautiful 22-year-old girl were placed first on the list of those to be questioned. The decision to change all previous tactics of the week-long search came after a meeting of the city's top-ranking police officials.

Prime suspect in the new drive is a girl roommate who disappeared Jan. 15, the day Miss Short's tortured and mutilated body, hacked in two, was found in a lovers' lane.

Adding to their belief that the girl's slayer may have been a woman were two factors. First, the fact that she was known to be in Los Angeles Jan. 9 without any luggage which would indicate she spent the week before she was killed with some woman who could provide extra clothing and make-up. Second, police officials said they believed the killing followed a pattern of other horror-murders by women.

Her presence in Los Angeles on Jan. 9 was sworn to by Robert (Red) Manley, 25, who was cleared of suspicion yesterday after a long grilling by police and two lie detector tests. Manley suggested another possible suspect, a swarthy, stocky "blind date" who jealously scratched Miss Short's arms until they bled. The man was insanely jealous of the girl, he said.
